

RCMP Vets' Edmonton Division

NOVEMBER NEWSLETTER

Maintiens le Droit

Good Day everyone,

Well, it certainly felt like 'Old Man Winter' arrived, nonetheless, I realize every Winter has its Spring, but this early cold makes Winter much too long.

On October 12th, I was honoured, on behalf of Edmonton Division, to present Sylvie Keane, the Executive Director of Valour Place a $5,000.00 cheque. Sylvie thanked our Division as this money helps give the men and women, including their families, who serve our country and communities a home away from home when they are receiving medical treatment.

On Oct 23rd, Jerry Forst and Joe Collinson attended the Celebration of Life for Cst. James Michael Jimmo. Standing between Jerry and Joe is Karen LUTZ (Reg. 45344 Cst. Rtd.) and Michael JIMMO, the son of the deceased, a member of the Slave Lake Fire Dept. Please note, on this day the Edmonton area received it's first snowfall and the roads were terrible, to which I can attest. I commend these Veterans for attending which I am sure the family appreciated!

Hospital Passes: Just recently one of our Veterans gave our Division a monitory donation thanking us for the Hospital Parking Passes we make available to our membership. It is a testimonial how much this program is appreciated by not only this member, but the membership on a whole. He gave us permission to share his comments which I included below:

*All the Vets involved in this Parking Pass Program, Tom Dunlop, Kees , yourself (Jerry) and all others___ thank you, thank you, thank you. It is a nice peace of mind to hang the pass and go to the appointment and not worry about plugging the meter etc. It is not the money aspect; it is the convenience.

We can not thank the vets enough for the parking pass. What a godsend. I have lost track of the number of visits to the Cross Cancer institute, The Royal Alexandra Hospital and the Lois Hole Clinic.

This is just one of many notes and comments we have received about these passes and how grateful our members are about this program. I was the one that underlined and bolded the one phrase as it's so compelling.

We had a smaller crowd than usual attend our last General/Dinner Meeting, but some of those who attended didn't disappoint when it came to dressing up in your best Halloween costume. There were prizes given to some those dressed up people, as judged by three experts and they are as follows:

Reg. #19518, GOULET Roger: Bye Rog, we will miss you!

Roger joined the Association in October 1982, has received his 40-year bar; is a life member of the Edmonton Division; prior to Tom Burkett he served as the Membership Coordinator & on the Social Committee; made up the 'Name Tags' everyone receives now after our supplier stopped doing it. He and his late wife, Marie, were very involved in all aspects of the 2005 AGM held in Edmonton. In 2013 Roger & Marie took over the Canteen which needed a great deal of work to bring it up to par. Roger helped modernize inventory to data entry formatting on computer records and constructed our first Website maintaining it until just recently. He helped set up the BOOST program which his late wife, Marie, and Joe Collinson initiated. He and Marie initiated the table décor for our dinner meetings volunteering many hours to obtain the materials and construct lovely theme arrangements. Some of these were very time consuming and always incredibly beautiful and still in use today. He is also the first person I know that had a 3D Printer and he printed a Clock for several Members on the Executive where he served for many, many years.

Roger is now about to move to Richmond, BC where he will be only blocks away from his son. We all wish him the best and he will be missed!! To the left is Kees presenting Roger with a small gift from all of us.

FROM "DEPOT" TO DETACHMENT

FACES OF THE FORCE

BY HELEN METELLA & PAMELA COWAN

TRUE STORIES OF C-1966/67 TROOP

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

REGINA — The array of possible locations the RCMP could have assigned to C Troop across Canada included rural or northern detachments, and municipal policing units. Even in rural areas, there was astonishing variety, with some members working three- or four-man detachments with plenty of highway patrol work, while others might have found themselves at a two-man fly-in territorial post. In the major cities, there was a similar wide array of possible units, from the drug squad to commercial crime, immigration to intelligence. Some members had gone almost immediately into plainclothes duties and never worked in uniform again, while others were uniformed policemen their entire careers. Even with top-tier coaching, the timing of their service meant this group had been fated to weather a bumpy start followed by rapid and tumultuous change in the RCMP.

FORWARD BY Retired Commissioner Bev Busson

It was November 1966. Canada was preparing for the 100th Anniversary of Confederation. Just two months away. For 32 young men from across this great country who were graduating from "Depot" as members of C-1966/67 Troop it was the beginning of a new life. This event set into motion the destinies of these newly minted Mounties in ways none of them could ever imagine. Some would serve their entire working lives in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP). Others would leave very early and go on to make their mark in other ways. All of them would be forever changed by the experience of being sworn in as members of, arguably, the best and certainly the most famous police force in the World.

The iconic red uniform is known across the planet as a symbol, not only of Canada, but of courage and integrity. Throughout history and most without exception, those choosing to join "The Force" make a difficult decision. In almost every case, they know they will be transferred far away from home, and separated from any support system they had. Few know, however, the

In 2016, Veteran Jerry Forst attended his Troop's 50th Anniversary. This resulted in the book, "FACES OF THE FORCE" being printed as a fundraiser for the RCMP Heritage Centre in Regina to support the Centre's Wall of Honour. This book has been reviewed by several members including retired Commissioner Bev Busson, Deputy Commissioner Les Holes and S/Sgt Tom Dunlop and was featured in the Fall 2022 Quarterly where it was reviewed by Deputy Commissioner Peter German.

The Gift Shop located at K Division carries the book and any profit from its sale goes towards the Heritage Centre. The book sells for $20.00 and would make an excellent Christmas gift. It features members from across Canada and several K Div members such as Ernie Otway. Joe Collinson also says it is a great book so it must be! After reading the book, Tom Dunlop wrote the following along with the Forward in the book from Commissioner Rtd. Bev Busson.

An excellent, honest, true documentary of the Force between 1966 and 1999. Informative, factual, gut-wrenching, humorous and sometimes sad, these stories run the gamut from everyday mundane duties to the extreme duties and adventures that the general public is not even aware that members of the Force perform.

—S/Sgt. Thomas William Dunlop (Retired)

extent to which their lives will change, and how different their view of humanity and their place in it will be. The training to become a member of this illustrious police force is tough. Courage and integrity are non-negotiable qualities of these RCMP recruits, but few understand the level of self-sacrifice and bravery that will be required of each of them.

This was true for C Troop. This amazing book, describing their "innocence lost," is compiled from the heartfelt and self-searching memories of C-1966/67 Troop. It offers a seldom seen insight into the real lives and the real memories of what these young men went through in their efforts to make a difference. We are fortunate to be afforded the privilege of hearing not only about their experiences, but about the agony and the ecstasy behind these memories. Their gritty stories, told in real life language and with brutal frankness, are sometimes hard to read but always gripping. It is important to remember that these members of C Troop, to a man, have offered their stories, not for profit, but instead to donate to the legacy of the next generations of Mounties through the Mounted Police Heritage Centre. Even more important, their legacy is magnified by shining a light on the day-to-day dangers that often go unnoticed in all segments of law enforcement. Man still bear the scars of what they have had to deal with in carrying out their duties. We owe a debt of gratitude to these unsung heroes. Fifty-plus years later, the endowment of C Troop continues, and stands as a chronicle not only to their success and their struggles, but also to the dedication and gallantry that distinguishes the members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police today.

CO Message

As the end of the year approaches, I can tell you the tempo of our work and operations remains high. We continue to celebrate the RCMP's 150th Anniversary by reaching out to the communities that we serve to celebrate together and build upon our relationships; and we continue to tackle the challenges in recruiting, with members all across the province taking the opportunity to speak to the public about the benefits of a career with the RCMP, and our numbers continue to improve. Most importantly, we continue our work in communities to keep Albertans safe.

November is also a time for reflection on those we have lost in the line of duty, not only in the RCMP, but among our veterans and current serving members of the Canadian Armed Forces. I know that there are many RCMP members and veterans who also served Canada through military service. I am grateful to those who gave of themselves to ensure freedom for Canadians, and many other people across the world.

I also want to take this opportunity to acknowledge the loss of our fellow officer Constable Rick O'Brien in British Columbia. The loss of another member this year weighs heavy on all of us, and it reminds us of the dangers our members face everyday. My deepest sympathies go out to the family and friends of Constable O'Brien.

Recruiting Campaigns

Recruitment remains a priority for me as well as for the RCMP at large. Our members continue to reach out to the public, attending all kinds of community events and job fairs to promote the RCMP as a career choice.

Throughout the month of October our members attended multiple events across the province including a job fair and training expo held in Calgary's BMO Centre, and an event at the Lethbridge College. At these events, our members talk about the advantages of a career with the RCMP as a member, Operational Communications Centre (OCC) operator, or a variety of other uniformed and none-uniformed positions. They also answer any questions that the public may have about policing in Alberta.

Bonnyville Colouring Contest

In celebration of the RCMP's 150th Anniversary, the Bonnyville Detachment hosted a colouring contest for the month of October. Children from the area submitted their artwork for the chance to win some RCMP-themed loot. Events like these help us strengthen our relationships with the communities we serve and help us to connect with the next generation of Albertans.

Wabasca School Visit

Early in October, students from Wabasca got a taste of life as a recruit! After a tour at HQ in Edmonton, the group took part in a fitness challenge, visited our Post Garage, and got to check out the OCC to hear real-time 911 calls.

Leduc RCMP offer tours of detachment along with Halloween Safety Tips

The Leduc RCMP along with the City of Leduc, City of Leduc Fire Services, enforcement officers, Safety Bear, and Sparky welcomed trick-or-treaters into the Protective Services Building for their spooktacular event. They provided the children the opportunity to meet with the first responders in their community, to learn about Halloween safety tips, and, of course, to indulge in some candy.

Operation Impact 2023 (October 6 to 9)

During this past thanksgiving long weekend, the Alberta RCMP, along with police forces across the country, participated in an annual initiative organized by the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police focused on encouraging safety on Canadian roads through Operation Impact.

By promoting safe driving behaviours, the participants of Operation Impact hoped to prevent collisions, save lives, and reduce injuries on Canada's roads. This year's campaign theme emphasized the accountability and the role each driver plays to support traffic safety on the streets and highways in their community.

While patrolling Alberta's roads this Thanksgiving, our members issued more than 2,000 tickets.

Overall, 55 tickets were issued for distracted driving, 40 tickets were issued for seatbelt infractions, 15 tickets were issued for liquor offences, and 902 tickets were issued for speeding. Of the tickets issued for speeding, 12 of them were in excess of 50 km/h with one ticket being issued for a driver traveling 185 km/h. Immediate roadside sanctions were issued to 86 drivers who were found to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol resulting in driving suspensions and vehicle seizures.

To ensure that Albertans were complying with traffic safety rules, Evansburg RCMP partnered with Alberta Fish and Wildlife, Parkland County, and Alberta RCMP Traffic to conduct a check stop on October 6. The Evansburg check stop inspected approximately 700 vehicles over the course of the weekend.

While only one motorist was found to be driving impaired, Evansburg RCMP did find drivers in possession of illegal drugs, illegal cigarettes, and several motorists driving without proper insurance or vehicle registration.

OCCtober

During the month of October, the Alberta RCMP highlighted the work of our Operational Communications Centre (OCC). This was part of an on-going effort to highlight the various departments across the organization. In October we focused on providing the public with behind-the-scenes footage and insights on the various aspects of police operations that our OCC members go through on an average day.

Going forward we will continue to promote programs that educate the public on the OCC. One of the major issues facing our OCC is the amount of 911 calls that they receive for non-emergency issues. In the coming months we will be performing outreach designed to teach the public about the various methods that they can use to contact the RCMP and what tools are appropriate to use in different scenarios.

New Guidon

On behalf of His Majesty King Charles III, His Honour the Honourable Russ Mirasty, S.O.M., M.S.M., Lieutenant Governor of Saskatchewan, presented a new Guidon, the ceremonial flag, to the RCMP at Depot.

The ceremony included a parade, as well as the consecration and formal presentation of the new Guidon. His Honour, the Honourable Russ Mirasty, and RCMP Commissioner Mike Duheme addressed those attending this historic event. The presentation of a Guidon for the first time in 50 years was the occasion to honour the service and dedication of duty to the Sovereign and to Canada by RCMP members past and present.

The first RCMP Guidon was consecrated in 1935. It was retired in 1973, when Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, the then-Honorary Commissioner of the RCMP, presented the second Guidon in Regina, Saskatchewan on the occasion of the RCMP's 100th anniversary. Following the coronation of King Charles III, a new Guidon was approved. It is unique as the RCMP is the only police force in the Commonwealth to have been presented with Colours by the Sovereign.

The Guidon is an important symbol for the RCMP. It reminds us of our history and the important work we do every day. It recognizes the operational honours that our organization has received for its participation in wartime and peace support operations. It's also a reminder of the important work that our members continue to do, both at home and abroad, to uphold the motto of the RCMP "Maintiens le Droit."

As we reflect on our shared history and accomplishments, I want to thank both our current members as well as our veterans for their service. Everyday serving with the RCMP provides us the opportunity to make a difference, and I couldn't be more proud to serve with such fine people.

Thank you, and as always stay safe,

Curtis Zablocki, M.O.M.
Deputy Commissioner
Commanding Officer Alberta RCMP
