There will be interviews in the 6-8 weeks leading up to a training sessions, where individuals will be assessed for suitability to the program.

The training itself is 30 hours of group classroom instruction which involves self-study of material and assignments. Trainers are available for support by appointment throughout the course. Following successful completion of the classroom component, students will complete a 50 hour practical learning experience where they will shadow experienced peer support workers, practice skills, run programming and experience peer support in a supervised environment. A final interview ensures that candidates have successfully integrated the training. Candidates must pass all elements of training to receive a certificate.

Benefits

The act of becoming involved and working toward change leads to renewed self-esteem and a sense of empowerment. The knowledge that you really can make a difference, not only in your own life, but in the lives of others, is invaluable.

Individuals find that peer support training is not only a meaningful experience as a professional pursuit, but on that contributes to their own growth and continued recovery.

Individuals gain increased knowledge, better communication, increased coping skills and a higher level of comfort with a variety of situations.

What You'll Learn

Individuals will learn a wide variety of topics key to the practice of peer support. Activities, assignments, discussion, instruction and skills practice will all make up some of the approaches used to teach and learn the material. All material is aligned with the Peer Support Accreditation and Certification Canada Knowledge Matrix. This enables individuals to pursue certification with this accrediting body in the future, should they desire.

Topics of study include:

- ◆ Confidentiality
- ◆ Values and Beliefs
- ◆ Hope and Recovery
- ◆ Problem Solving
- ◆ Boundaries & self-disclosure
- ◆ Communication & listening skills
- ◆ Community Resources
- ◆ Crisis intervention
- ◆ Trauma-informed practice
- ◆ Self-care
- ◆ History and principles of peer support
- ◆ Recovery-oriented peer support practice
