

Breastfeeding My Baby

Breastfeeding is the normal and healthiest way to feed your baby. It is the only food your baby needs.

How do I know if my baby is getting enough breast milk? The best way is by the number of wet and soiled diapers and your baby's weight gain.

Your Baby's Age	1 week					2 Weeks	3 Weeks
	1 Day	2 Days	3 Days	4 Days	5, 6, 7 Days
How often do I breast feed? Per day, on average, over 24 hours	 I am feeding my baby 8 or more times per day (every 1-3 hours), including 2-3 night time feeds
How big is my baby's tummy? *approximately	 5-7 ml • Size of a Marble		 22-27 ml • Size of a Ping Pong Ball			 60-80 ml • Size of an Egg
How many wet diapers will my baby have? Per day, on average, over 24 hours *Clear pale yellow urine	 At least 1 WET	 At least 2 WET	 At least 3 WET	 At least 4 WET	 At least 5 WET	 At least 6 WET
How many soiled diapers will my baby have? Per day, on average, over 24 hours	 At least 1-2 black or dark green		 At least 2-3 brown, green or yellow			 At least 2-3 soft and seedy yellow
How much will my baby weigh?	Your baby may lose 7-10% of its birth weight in the first 3 days after birth			Your baby gains 20-35 grams (2/3 to 1 1/3 oz.) per day and regains his/her birth weight by 10-14 days		Your baby now gains 120-240 grams (4-8 oz.) per week
Other Signs	Your baby has a strong cry, moves actively, and wakes easily. Your breasts feel softer and less full after a feeding. After a few weeks it is normal for your breasts to feel soft and still have lots of milk.
